

Suzanne Murray

Founder & CEO of AXDEV Group, Global (USA) and Europe GmbH

Suzanne Murray's professional career spans over 30 years in organizational development, management, healthcare research, education, and performance improvement.

As the CEO and Founder of AXDEV Group International since 1997, Suzanne has supported organizations, companies and governments in Canada, United States, Europe and Asia. Prior to AXDEV, she spent 18 years at McGill University's Faculty of Medicine, Centre for Studies in Aging and the Montreal General Hospital. Her academic achievements are in organizational and professional development and management, from McGill University and Concordia University.

Suzanne's leadership and innovative approach have guided decision makers in major organizations and in various industries to assess strategies and operational needs for professionals as well as organizational performance excellence. She has presented and published in over 100 international peer-reviewed conferences and over 30 peer-reviewed journals, specializing in human and organizational performance and education. Suzanne is a professional guide for women and men in senior leadership positions dealing with behavioral and performance challenges in international specialty societies, ministries of health, the healthcare industry and fortune 500 companies.

Suzanne and AXDEV have received numerous business awards: Alliance for Continuing Medical Education award with the University of Wisconsin, American College of Cardiology & Mayo Clinic; Alliance for Continuing Medical Education award in collaboration with the University of North Texas Health Science Center; Mercuriades award for Best Service Business in Quebec from the Federation of Chambers of Commerce and the Business Women of the Year, for her international contribution, from the Réseau des Femmes d'affaires du Québec (the Quebec business women's network) as well as other awards.

She has served as a board member and expert consultant for: Global Alliance for Medical Education (GAME); board member, Canadian Association of Continuing Health Education (CACHE); the International Strategies and Professional Development Committees, Alliance for CME (United States); was appointed by the Minister of Education, from the Government of Quebec as a Board member of a Quebec-based College (CEGEP Édouard-Montpetit), and was the Chair of the Economic Committee for the International CME Congress in 2008 and 2012.